WORK OF THE X-RAY

DEPARTMENT OF GLENDALE SANITARIUM WHERE INTERNAL ORGANS ARE EXAMINED

Glendale Sanitarium has an up-to-date X-ray department where the human body can be tested and examined and its broken bones, fractured ribs, and internal weaknesses of all kinds can be set down on photographic plates and studied by means of a power stereoscope which shows the interior of the body in its true perspective and its natural curves. In this wonderful apparatus the X-ray photograph is placed, and hardened lung tissue, gall stones, calcareous formations in any of the organs are plainly revealed and can be studied at ease so as to discover the best method of treating or removing them.

The value of this department is plainly shown in the large number of plates of all manner of troubles from a simple fracture of the wrist caused by cranking an auto to compound fractures of the skull and displacements of the stomach. Mr. Clarence H. Jones, the special nurse in charge of this department, is an expert in the management of the different pieces of mechanism used here. This business is becoming every day more and more technical and soon special courses of study resulting in special degrees will be necessary to those who handle the X-ray outfit.

One of the interesting and useful pieces of apparatus here is high-frequency machine or blue-ray machine as it is often called. This, through a single terminal of glass, pours a constant flood of electricity into the human frame and loosens up deep tissue, relieving blood pressure. This is valuable in cases of apoplexy. Normal pressure is 120; but patients come for treatment with a pressure of 180, 200 and so on. Sometimes in one treatment this pressure is reduced 40 degrees. People come from all over Southern California to get this treatment.

Examinations of patients are made by the fluoroscope by means of which pictures of the body are thrown on a screen and thus examined or they are taken photographically and the negatives developed and then examined at leisure by means of the stereoscope. When it is considered desirable to examine the condition of the stomach, its action can be plainly seen by means of the fluoroscope. In this case the pictures are taken while the patient is standing. In another part of the room is an X-ray table on which the patient is placed and pictures taken by means of the X-ray. Here are Crookes tubes that cost $125 and with their accessories an additional $75. The central column on which the X-ray impinges is made of solid tungsten. This machine has 20-kilowatt power.

For stomach work from ¼ to one second's exposure is given. Here is a timing machine for exposures which can time to the 10th part of a second. This machine uses the current from the street wire. This comes in with a voltage of 225 and is changed from alternating to pulsating-direct current with a voltage of 150,000 to 200,000.

Formerly one used to hear a great deal about X-ray burns, now by reason of the perfection of instruments there scarcely is anything known of such burns. After the patient has been given all that the skin can bear at one treatment about three weeks is the period allowed to elapse until the next treatment. In that period the skin frequently shows a slight tanning as if exposed to the sun. The use of the X-ray is increasing every day and is being found of vast benefit in a wide range of human ailments.

CHAMPIONSHIP GAME

As Glendale and Covina are tied for first place in the County League this game will force one of the teams into second place. Glendale met Covina earlier in the year and won 13-3, and are confident of repeating. The probable line-up for Glendale will be:

Verdugo, 3b; Kolts, c; Phillips, ss; Lukens, p; McGillis, 2b; West, cf; Padelford, 1b; S. Verdugo, rf; Crandall, lf.

LECTURE ON BIBLE

Earle Albert Rowell has been engaged to speak next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock in the Lutheran church on the subject of "The Wonderful Story of How the Bible Came Down Through the Ages."

NATIVE WILD FLOWERS

THEODORE PAYNE TELLS GARDEN SOCIETY ABOUT CALIFORNIA FLORA

At the meeting of the Glendale Garden society, held in the High School auditorium Thursday night, there was a large attendance. The meeting was specially interesting from the presence of Theodore Payne of Los Angeles, the well-known wild flower expert, and of H. S. Upjohn, deputy County Superintendent of Schools who has charge of the department of Visual Education, both of whom gave instructive addresses. Mrs. Nanno Woods, president of the Garden society, presided.

Mr. Caruthers, president of the flower show, gave an exhaustive report of that affair. Mrs. Ella Richardson gave an account of the recent visit of 40 members of the Glendale Garden society to the Pasadena flower show. On motion the Flower Show committee was discharged. A communication was read from the city trustees expressing their appreciation of the efforts of the society in getting up the recent flower show and their belief that that successful affair had done a great deal to advertise the city and hoping that next year would see an even more successful show.

On account of the large increase in membership, which now amounts to more than 200 and the increase in business necessitated by that membership and the widening scope of the society's operations, it was decided to elect a corresponding secretary. Mrs. Woods intimated that the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce would hold a wild flower exhibit beginning June 1. It was also intimated that an afternoon session of the Garden society would be held Thursday, May 11, at the home of J. H. Seaman, Central avenue, Tropico.

Mr. Theodore Payne then began his illustrated talk on wild flowers. He told of the disappearance of wild flowers in the vicinity of Los Angeles on account of the building operations. Orchards had taken the place of the open fields and the native plants disappeared before the trees. In earlier days houses, even those of the rich, were built on comparatively small lots, and the open country was left untouched. Now rich people purchase large areas of ground and begin to improve them by destroying all the native vegetation. He recommended that in landscape gardening all the native shrubs and trees should be preserved and the wild flowers encouraged to grow. He told of the wild flower garden that has been created in Exposition park, Los Angeles. There are five acres of this section in which are growing 233 species of trees, shrubs and flowers. These varieties have been collected from all over California and in each section one plant is labeled with its botanical name.

The lecturer then threw on the screen colored slides showing various shrubs and flowers native to California. He gave graphic descriptions of each telling of the habitat, habits and properties of the various exhibits. Such common trees as the elder, the lilac, the sumach in its three varieties, the yucca with its 6000 blossoms, box thorn, greasewood, buckwheat, the scarlet pentstemon, the matilija poppy, the sticky phlox, the canyon lupine, the Indian pink, the California fuchsia, the cluster lily, all the varieties of mariposa lily were shown in slides remarkable for their clearness and accuracy of coloring.

The lecturer also showed pictures of many annuals such as nemophila maculata, the yellow daisy, Canterbury bells, thistle sage, tidy tips, godetia and gentian. The lecture was greatly enjoyed. The lecturer had a great deal of interesting lore to communicate concerning the flowers and shrubs and where they might be found.

H. S. Upjohn, deputy county superintendent of schools, then spoke of the advantages of visual education. He told of how this department had been developed and the difficulties of presenting the pictures relating to various subjects are being overcome—the darkening of windows, the fixing of screens and above all the expense of providing the outfits for this method of instruction. All these are on the way to solution and it will soon be possible for the children in every school to study the actual growth of flowers and shrubs by means of moving pictures. Some subjects, he said, could be studied best with the aid of the stereopticon, others by the moving picture machine. In this way the habits of many animals could be observed and the inhabitants, cities and customs of foreign lands brought to the schools.

GERMANY MAKES TENTATIVE CONCESSIONS

TEUTONS MODIFY SUBMARINE WARFARE AND DEMAND U. S. ACTION AGAINST BRITAIN

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

BERLIN, May 5 (By Wireless)—The conclusion of the German note sent in reply to President Wilson's ultimatum, says: "The German government notifies the government of the United States that, in accordance with general principles of naval warfare, German submarines will visit and search destructive merchant vessels in consonance with international law, both within and without the area that has been declared within the scope of German submarine warfare. Unarmed vessels will not be sunk without attempts to save the lives of their crews unless they attempt to escape or resist.

"Neutrals cannot expect Germany to abandon her most effective weapon against an enemy that is permitted at will to continue methods of warfare that are not sanctioned by international law. Accordingly the German government is confident that in consequence of the new orders issued to her naval forces the government of the United States will now see to it that all impediments will be removed which may be in the way of mutual co-operation towards the restoration of the freedom of the seas during the war. It does not doubt that the United States will now demand and insist that the British government shall forthwith observe strictly the law laid down in the notes previously presented to Britain by the United States.

"Should the steps taken by the United States not obtain the object desired the German government would be facing a new situation in which it must preserve to itself complete liberty of decision."

THINK KAISER HAS YIELDED ALL POINTS

BERLIN AUTHORITIES SAY GERMANY'S ANSWER TO WILSON SHOULD BE SATISFACTORY

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

BERLIN, May 5.—It is thought here that the kaiser in his reply to President Wilson's ultimatum has yielded practically every demand made by the United States. The leading authorities here are congratulating themselves that the possibility of war has been averted. Others, however, are not so sanguine and believe that the United States may find the answer ambiguous and conditional.

GERMANS AGAIN ATTACK VERDUN IN FORCE

TEUTONS MAKE TERRIFIC ASSAULT ON HILL 304 WITH SMALL GAINS AND LARGE LOSSES

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

PARIS, May 5.—After heavy artillery preparation the Germans this morning made a terrific assault on Hill 304, which is considered the keystone of the French defense of Verdun. Massed infantry advanced to the attack and more masses took the places of those shot down. The French fire was most destructive. With the exception of a few points where the Germans managed to cling to some of the advanced trenches, they were repulsed with great slaughter. Gen. Petain says they will be cleared out of the few points they hold without delay.

FOUR MORE IRISH REBELS EXECUTED

BRITISH GOVERNMENT CONTINUES POLICY OF SHOOTING LEADERS IN RECENT REVOLT

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

DUBLIN, May 5.—Four more rebel leaders were courtmartialed and shot this morning. Their names are: Joseph Plunket, Edward Daw, Michael O'Hannon and William Pearce. This makes seven of the Irish leaders who have been shot. It is hoped that the recent joint appeal made by John Redmond and Sir Edward Carson may serve to stop the executions. It has now been ascertained that in the street fighting here 66 soldiers were killed and 122 rebels. The hospitals are also full of the wounded of both sides. Collectors of rare stamps are here buying up all they can get of the postage stamps that were printed for the Irish republic. Those stamps are printed in green, white and orange, with pictures of the Manchester martyrs, the shamrock, a harp and the motto, "God Save Ireland."

BIG JAPANESE LINER FINALLY ABANDONED

MARINE UNDERWRITERS FINALLY ACCEPT TOTAL LOSS OF CHIYO MARU AND WILL PAY INSURANCE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

SAN FRANCISCO, May 5.—Marine underwriters have finally accepted the loss of the Chiyo Maru, the big liner of the Toyo Kaisen Kaisha, which went ashore on a reef not far from Hongkong. The vessel has now been abandoned. The cargo is a total loss and the entire sum involved is $5,000,000.

ZEPPELINS BOMBARD CAMP OF ALLIES

SALONIKI, May 5.—Zeppelin raiders attacked the Allied camp here this morning. They did some damage. This is the second attack within twenty-four hours.

RIGHTEOUS BY FAITH

DR. J. R. PRATT SAYS GOD'S PEOPLE ARE NOT SAVED BY SACRAMENTS

Thursday evening at the Presbyterian church, Dr. J. R. Pratt continued his studies in the Epistle to the Romans, the lesson being the righteousness of God exemplified.

Paul is showing that the righteousness of God is in perfect harmony with the law, using Old Testament characters as examples. Abraham and David are used as examples, being representatives of the two covenants, both having been saved by faith.

While in harmony with the law salvation is apart from the law. Abraham is declared righteous by faith before circumcision was given. Circumcision was the outward sign of his faith. Abraham and all of God's people are saved by faith alone, not by any sacrament. The foundation of Abraham's faith was God's promises.

The character of his faith was such that he staggered not when the promise given was, humanly speaking, impossible. By the foundation of his faith, he was fully persuaded that God was able to perform. The difference between the believer and the unbeliever is, that one can see the unseen, the other can only see the visible. The result of his faith it was counted to him for righteousness.

Abraham's faith is an example for us, "We, also, are saved through faith," that Jesus Christ died for our sins and that he arose from the dead for our justification.

By this faith the believer becomes reconciled to God, has peace with God and the peace of God, a new standing in Christ, a new vision; becomes a joint heir with Jesus Christ, can glory in tribulation, and go out to do God's work guided and directed by the Holy Spirit.

Mr. Edmonds announced that all the Bible study classes would close at the end of this month with a four days' conference. The plans are not yet perfected. The details are to be worked out. A cordial invitation is given to all to attend these classes and the conference.

CAPTAIN JOHN U. COMMONS

The death of Capt. John U. Commons on Thursday morning at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. W. J. Button, in this city, marks the close of a long and eventful life—spanning as it did nearly a century in the history of our country.

Captain Commons was born in 1825 in Wayne County, Indiana. He was of Quaker stock, his parents removing from North Carolina to Indiana while it was still a territory. At the opening of the Civil War he promptly answered the call for volunteers to defend the Union, and became Quartermaster of the 57th Indiana regiment. Later he became private secretary to the great war-governor of Indiana, Oliver P. Morton, and when the governor was elected United States Senator, Capt. Commons was appointed to a clerkship in the office of the Secretary of the United States Senate, where he served until chosen by Governor Baker of Indiana as his private secretary.

Eight years ago Capt. Commons came to California from Indianapolis and during this time has lived in Los Angeles. He leaves four children, Mrs. Mary C. Brown of Los Angeles, Mrs. W. J. Button of Glendale, Wm. B. Commons of Columbus, Ohio, and Mrs. H. T. Conde of Indianapolis, Indiana. Besides these there are seven grandchildren, and two great-grandsons, William and Boyd Taylor of Eagle Rock, Cal.

Capt. Commons maintained a deep and intelligent interest in political affairs up to the last, and in every fiber of his being he was a patriotic citizen of his beloved country. He was a member of the Stanton Post, G. A. R., and his funeral services were conducted today at Inglewood by officers of the Grand Army of the Republic.

MISSIONARY MEETING

The Woman's Home Missionary society of the First Methodist church met yesterday at the home of Mrs. B. D. Snudden for the regular May meeting. The 5th chapter of the study book, "Home Missions in Action," was made very interesting by Mrs. Shepherd and Mrs. Potter. Mrs. Pirtle and Mrs. Taylor also assisted on the program. Miss Dumke was welcomed as a new member.

The annual mite box opening of this society will be held next Friday evening, May 12, at the home of Mrs. C. W. Ingledue, 725 W. Third St., to which all the members, with their husbands or a friend, are cordially invited.

UNIQUE LUNCHEON

MRS. COLIN CABLE ENTERTAINS FRIENDS AT ENJOYABLE AFFAIR

All who were present at the luncheon party given by Mrs. Colin Cable, 755 S. Columbus avenue, Thursday afternoon, pronounced it one of the most unique and enjoyable they had ever had the pleasure of attending. The guests numbered thirty-five but they had all been chosen with such regard to their social qualities that the whole party found itself on common ground and conversation of a high intellectual order and specially on social topics prevailed. As one of the prominent guests said, "It is seldom that so large a group of unselfish women is brought together."

Mrs. Cable had transformed her spacious residence into a bower of beauty. Roses, asparagus ferns and smilax adorned the rooms. With so many guests the problem of seating them all was not easy but it was solved by having one large table at which eight were seated and the remainder at small tables, each of which seated four. The large table had a very handsome Tiffany silver basket in the center filled with cochet roses and ferns. The little nut baskets on this table were crocheted and decorated with pink roses. The small tables were decorated with purple, yellow and pink. The nut baskets on these tables were iris, water lily or roses and according to the kind of basket on each table the center flower was either iris, rose or water lily.

A two-course luncheon was served. After luncheon a most pleasing program of high-class music was given; Mrs. Yost sang two vocal solos with great acceptance, Mrs. Van Den Berg, a vocalist of great culture and exquisite voice, also sang two songs. Mrs. Le Roy Bosserman played two piano selections with her customary mastery of expression and Mrs. G. C. Cable gave two readings.

After the program the guests played 500 and those who did not join in this form of amusement enjoyed a guessing contest provided for them by their hostess. Conversation was general and a most pleasing afternoon was spent. Those present were: Los Angeles guests: Mrs. Sherman Urion, Miss Gertrude Bennett, Mrs. Tryne, Mrs. Eva Moselle, Mrs. William Moselle, Mrs. H. J. Hyatt, Mrs. Russell Hyatt, Miss La Croix, Miss J. H. Emerson, Mrs. I. H. Ihrig, Mrs. Bertha Fickesen, Mrs. Harry Charlton and Mrs. Fisher; Mrs. Boggs of Long Beach; Glendale guests: Mesdames LeRoy Bosserman, L. V. Ashton, G. C. Cable, Ella Richardson, Stephen C. Packer, R. Yost, William Farlander, H. H. Faries, John Frazee, Stillman Chase, Minnie Patterson, George Lyon, Joseph Renshaw, Brahm Van Den Berg, Frank Ayres, Clarence Webb, Samuel Stoddard, Mrs. Sibel and Mrs. Von Oven; Mrs. H. R. W. Hartwig and Miss Caroline Hartwig of St. Joseph.

TROPICO PLAYGROUND CARNIVAL

The Tropico Playground Carnival is surely going to be one great get-together meeting. Plans are progressing rapidly. Every day some attraction is added. All afternoon and until midnight there is something doing every minute, songs, dances, games, eats, flowers, bands, confetti, children, what more could one wish? The contest for queen is creating no little enthusiasm. The girls who were elected from the different schools to represent their respective rooms are Dorothy Shaw, Elsie Springer, Gladys Gaarder, Jeanette Seaman, Dorothy Carmack, Bernice Adam.

At noon today Jeannette Seaman, Gladys Gaarder and Dorothy Carmack were in the lead.

TENNIS BREAKFAST

A very delightful and unusual affair was the tennis breakfast given at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning by Mrs. W. E. Evans, at her home, 106 Orange street, to members of a local tennis club. The decorations were of sweet peas and the place cards were in the form of tiny tennis racquets hand decorated with flowers. After the delicious breakfast the following guests all repaired to the tennis courts at Miradero and enjoyed the balance of the day in a series of well matched games: Mrs. W. P. Thompson, Mrs. Charles Temple, Mrs. Albert Pearce, Mrs. Alfred Priest, Mrs. George Mitchell, Miss Barbara Mitchell and Miss Myrtle Pulliam. The tennis club meets again next Tuesday.

HANDICAP OF BAD REPUTATION

One of the most difficult things in this world is trying to live down a bad reputation. Only of very recent years have criminologists come to realize that the object of all handling of criminals is not so much punitive as reformative. It will take a very long time for that idea to take hold of the country. The idea of giving a criminal a chance is not one that commends itself to the average individual. Indeed so strong is the instinct of brutal handling of criminals in the hearts of a section of the citizenry of the country that mobs take the law into their own hands and lynch suspects without a trial.

When the suspected criminal gets so short a shrift at the hands of some the convicted criminal is given but scant chance to recover himself at the hands of others. Doubtless the horror engendered by crime is responsible for this feeling and perhaps it is partly a matter of inheritance from times when supposedly refined men and women went to executions and took their lunches with them, just as they have done to lynchings in years not far distant.

In these modern days, however, there is a growing feeling that society has some responsibility for various crimes and that if criminals can be reformed they should be. Occasionally a criminal sets back the hands of the clock of reform in this direction by taking advantage of the leniency shown him to commit further crimes and thus much valuable reform work is lost. The average criminal is a defective. A glance at the pictures in the Rogues' gallery of any police office will demonstrate this to anyone's satisfaction. The majority of these people should be in institutions where they would receive treatment and whence they could not molest the public.

Occasionally a man becomes a criminal from high spirits and a desire for a life of adventure. Such a man was Al Jennings, favorably known in Glendale as having been converted to righteousness here under the ministry of the Rev. John Troy, lately of the Baptist church of Glendale. Jennings, before his conversion, had turned over a new leaf. He had been convicted as a train robber and hold-up man and had been pardoned by the governor of Oklahoma. He resolved to lead a new life. After severe struggles he managed to become a reputable lawyer and in the State where his exploits as a train robber had been performed he rehabilitated himself in the eyes of the people. Even then the greater part of the respectable public turned the cold shoulder to him and he met with all manner of snubs and insults in his public life. Such treatment would have discouraged most people, but Jennings struggled through it to a life of Christian utility.

It takes a wonderful amount of manliness to live down a bad reputation like that. It is nearly as difficult to live down a bad reputation that is not deserved. Many young men go to the bad because people expect them to go. Mischievousness should not be mistaken for criminality. It is possible for young people to live down such a reputation.

Some people suffer on account of the evil reputation of relatives and find themselves set in the same category of evil. That, too, can be overcome by righteous living until all know that you are worthy of trust. An undeserved bad reputation can be lived down as easily as one that is deserved.

RECENT EVENTS AT VERDUN

Dead Man's hill is a key position in the salient of the French line at Verdun. It projects out into the German lines and has been a position from which the French have been able to enfilade Teuton troops marching to attack the French positions. During three months past an iron hail has burst up on this position. It is scarred and pitted in every direction with shell craters. It bears the ugly yellow streaks of chlorine gas fumes under cover of which the Teuton legions have advanced to the attack. Through all the French have held it and continue to hold it.

After incredible efforts the Germans managed to establish a footing at the bottom of the hill and there dug themselves in and constructed trenches with feverish activity. A mile or two of such trenches was the reward of nearly three months' fighting and the loss of 200,000 men. Still the French held firm. The Germans had collected around Verdun all the heaviest artillery field guns of every description and thousands of machine guns. It is said that the Teuton allotment of rapidfire machine guns is now one to each four men in a regiment. Acres of ammunition were piled up behind the lines in safe places and the destructive fire poured on the French positions seemed to justify the Germans in thinking they could break through; but the French lines held firm.

Now it is difficult for the Germans to give up. They find that the French have taken the initiative and are gradually taking back the trenches that the Teutons bought at such enormous cost of human life. It was only a few miles that the Germans advanced but even that advance is now being lost. Yet if the crown prince should give up Germany will have owned to defeat. It has always been the rule of the German tacticians to keep the initiative. They have been doing that at an enormous cost for some time and apparently must continue to keep it or submit to be defeated.

There is evidence that the Germans have been withdrawing troops from Verdun for an assault on the Russian lines in the Riga section. The question that will shortly be decided is whether this northern attack will not weaken the western front too much and whether such a move can be carried out to any advantage.

There are two methods of going about work. One way is to do everything with difficulty and to make as much trouble for others as possible. It is quite common to see men at work with darkening brows, lazy steps and a general expression of disgust and weariness. In answer to all queries such people have a growl and a snap like some unfortunate canine animal in whom the poison of hydrophobia is incubating. It is not possible to do effective work under such conditions or with such feelings. On the other hand even when there is much to discourage and try one it is quite possible to be alert, to go about work with a bright eye, an open countenance and a general air of geniality that makes it appear that the work is enjoyable. Naturally the work is done in both cases but it is a question that now is being taken up by all experts in efficiency if the best work is not done where the atmosphere is not only light physically but also mentally. Modern inquiry has developed the experience that more work and better work is done where there is plenty of daylight in the workshop and also an atmosphere of geniality and kindness. Some modern efficiency experts even recommend where possible the stimulating effects of music, as giving great returns in output and quality of output.

GLENDALE FOOTHILLS

Mr. F. M. Smith, a former resident of Glendale, at 728 N. Louise street, who was seriously injured in an auto accident at Pasadena ten days ago, is still unconscious at the hospital there. He has sustained a basal fracture of the skull and his recovery is doubtful.

Mr. J. W. Ferrell of Viola street, who recently submitted to a minor operation, is recovering nicely and expects shortly to be able to get out again.

Mrs. William Alston, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. George Branderburg, of Burchett street, is making a rapid recovery from what has been quite a serious illness.

Mrs. M. S. Hewitt and Mrs. W. E. Hewitt of 728 N. Louise street, are guests today at a large luncheon and card party at the residence of Mrs. Kelly of South Pasadena.

JOSEPH'S BONDAGE

A rehearsal of "Joseph's Bondage" was held last night at the Palace Grand Theatre. About sixty singers are being drilled for the production, which will be given next Monday evening, May 8.

The scope of this work is distinctly operatic and each scene is full of life and color. The action begins with a scene showing the household of Jacob the Patriarch, where Joseph the youth (Miss Ellene Grist) arouses the jealousy and anger of his brothers and others by his relating his hopes of greatness which he has beheld in visions and dreams. The next scene shows the brothers conspiring to kill Joseph at a shepherd's camp, and finally their selling him to merchantmen to take him to Egypt. Each scene gives vividly some incident of the splendidly dramatic story which culminates in Joseph, the ruler of Egypt, receiving his father Jacob and all his household in Egypt where Pharaoh invites them to remain as a highly favored people.

Exceptionally good voices will be heard in many of the solo character parts.

Chapter B. A. of the P. E. O. held a regular business meeting at 10 o'clock Friday forenoon, May 5, at the home of Leeta McCoy, 127 E. Third street. After business was disposed of a social half-hour was enjoyed. The meeting adjourned to meet with Mrs. Freeman Kelly, May 19, when Mrs. Frank Arnold will entertain.

READING FOR PLEASURE

"Matthew Arnold told us, long ago," the Rt. Hon. George W. E. Russell says in his "Sketches and Snapshots," "that the Bible and Shakespeare are imposed upon an Englishman as objects of his admiration, but that, as soon as he begins to choose for himself, he chooses Macaulay. I have sometimes been disposed to think that, if Arnold had substituted Milton for Shakespeare, his sentence would have been nearer the truth. Of Milton it can, I think, be said more truly than of Shakespeare that he is 'imposed' upon an Englishman as the object of his admiration; or, to put the point rather differently, more Englishmen read Shakespeare for pleasure than read Milton. Of course I am speaking not of men whose taste for literature is genuine and keen, but of him whom Arnold called 'the common Englishman desiring culture.' Such an one, I think, if asked to enumerate the chief glories of the English tongue, would certainly name Milton; but I doubt if he would really read 'Paradise Lost' with sincere enjoyment. On the other hand, though he might feel a little awe of Hamlet and Lear and be not quite at home with 'The gentle lady married to the Moor,' I can believe that he would thoroughly enjoy the Historical Plays, and would find in the Comedies his entry into a new world of fancy and feeling. I have actually known a Public-School boy, not by any means a dunce or a Philistine, who read 'King Henry VIII' for its pomp and the 'Merry Wives of Windsor' for its fun, long before his tutor could persuade him that there was wisdom in the Soliloquy or beauty in the Sonnets. 'Others abide out question. Thou art free.' Shakespeare, I think, might be safely left to take care of himself, and would find his way, by his unaided spell, into the heart and library of 'the common Englishman desiring culture.' It is Milton who is 'imposed upon' us by a weight of authority too powerful to be resisted."

VALLEY VIEW

F. C. Herron of 1440 Vine street arrived at home last Tuesday from Maryville, Mo., where he was summoned by news of the fatal illness of his father, who died before his son reached him.

While considerable satisfaction is expressed over the prospective improvement of Pacific avenue from the San Fernando Road north to Broadway, some disappointment is felt that the work on the roadbed is but temporary. It is realized that an oiled street is good for a very few years' travel, only three or four at best, and it seems a pity that a permanent oil macadam roadbed cannot be put it. But as this would work a great hardship to so many property owners, few of the lots along Pacific facing that street, it is much better to put in a part of the work at one time. Owing to the width of Pacific the cost of the full improvement to the holder of a single lot bordering it, as most of them do, would be between $200 and $300.

The little house at 1437 Vine St. has been sold recently and the new owner is improving it considerably before moving in.

The potato crop in Valley View is not so large as the acreage planted would indicate. Many vacant lots have been put in, but generally the yield is small, only 2 or 3 tubers to the plant.

Little Billy Burk, 525 Central avenue, had his collar bone broken last evening while at play. He is five years old.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Braly of 205 N. Brand boulevard entertained at dinner Thursday evening Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Braly of Pasadena, Dr. and Mrs. Herman Janss of Brentwood and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Braly of Conejo ranch, near Ventura. The guests said that while they enjoyed the excellent dinner provided for them by their hosts that what they really had come to see was the wonderful rose fence that adorns the Braly property. They could not sufficiently admire the clusters of lovely blooms that are growing in such magnificent profusion at present and all expressed their desire to get cuttings for propagation.

TO TALK ON "OLD TRAILS"

Mrs. A. F. C. Ford of South Pasadena, state chairman of the D. A. R. in connection with the Old Trails roads, will speak at the coming meeting of Gen. Richard Gridley chapter of the D. A. R., which meets at the home of Mrs. John H. Braly, 205 N. Brand boulevard, Wednesday, May 10. Mrs. Ford is an expert on the subject of the Old Trails roads. She is also an enthusiast on this particular topic so that a most enjoyable talk may be expected on the subject of "El Camino Real."

It has been determined that bells shall be erected all along the Old Trails. The Gen. Richard Gridley chapter has been interested in this matter and Mrs. John H. Braly has at her own expense provided for the erection of a bell at the Capistrano mission, in honor of that chapter. Escholtzia of Los Angeles has provided another bell.

City Manager and Ex-Officio Street Superintendent of the City of Glendale. 217t2

LIBRARY LOANS PICTURES

The young people of the public schools of New York City are making good use of about 20,000 pictures and 5,500 art cards that are loaned by the public library, just as books are. Teachers in the institutions for deaf mutes have introduced the pictures among the lower grade classes, illustrating fairy stories and descriptions of Thanksgiving and other holidays.

A teacher of literature borrowed a large set of pictures to interest her class in books they were reading. Art students have found this new branch of the library a veritable mine of interesting material for art studies.

PROGRESSIVE HONDURAS

The government of Honduras has found it advisable to open an automobile school for the training of young men to operate cars and act as mechanical adjusters. The students before obtaining diplomas, must qualify for the practical assembling and handling machines of all classes.

This has been brought about by the increasing popularity obtained by automobiles in Honduras during the last two years. In Tegucigalpa, the capital, where only mule teams and a few fine horses were to be seen a few years ago, automobiles are now fairly common.

FAMOUS GRAPEVINE

James Jack, keeper of the famous grapevine at Hampton Court Palace, England, has retired after thirty-two years of active service as "chief custodian of the King's vine," as his title reads. The vine was planted in 1768 by "Capability" Brown, the famous landscape gardener of the eighteenth century.

The vine is now considered one of the finest in the world. It stretches in wide, perfectly trimmed squares, eighty feet by twenty-six feet, the whole length and breadth of the royal greenhouse. Two hundred bunches of grapes are sent from it to King George at Windsor every year. The grape is the old Black Hamburg. Two of the bunches which were awarded prizes by the Royal Horticultural Society a few years ago, weighed three pounds fourteen ounces each, and the entire twelve bunches exhibited weighed about forty-two pounds.

Let us be of goor cheer, remembering that the misfortunes hardest to bear are those which never come. —Lowell.

Mr. A. M. Stewart of San Gabriel, Calif., came to me with three pairs of glasses which were from some of the best in Los Angeles. He proved to be one of the hardest cases on record. Is now enjoying comfort never before thought of. He is a U. S. mail carrier, and a familiar face in Glendale.

Mr. B. Gorman, 767 S. Louise St., camera operator with the Kalem Company, came to me suffering with headaches and in great distress. Had never worn glasses before. Since prescribing a pair of Scientific Violet Ray Glasses does not know what a headache feels like.

CIVILIZED AND SAVAGE

Dr. A. G. Mayer, of the Carnegie Institution, in the Popular Science Monthly, says:

The Fijians of today are more orderly and sober than, and quite as contented as are any peoples of European ancestry, and illiteracy is rarer in Fiji than in Massachusetts. You were safer even fifteen years ago in any part of Fiji, although your host knew how you tasted, than you could be in the streets of any civilized city. It is clear that in disposition the Fijians are not unlike ourselves, and only in their time-honored customs were they barbarous. Indeed the lowest human beings are not in the far-off wilds of Africa, Australia, or New Guinea, but among the degenerates of our own great cities. . .

Yet in one important respect the savage of today appears to differ from civilized man. Civilized races are progressive and their systems of thought and life are changing, but the savage prefers to remain fixed in the culture of a long-past age, which, conserved by the inertia of custom and sanctified by religion, holds him helpless in its inexorable grasp. . .

The savage may know nothing of our classics, and little of that which we call science, yet go with him into the deep woods and his knowledge of the uses of every plant and tree and rock around him and his acquaintance with the habits of the animals are a subject for constant wonder to his civilized companion. In other words, his knowledge differs from ours in kind rather than in breadth and depth. . . .

IMPORTANT TO WIRELESS

According to R. B. Wolverton, United States radio expert, the high towers hitherto thought to be indispensable as a part of the outfit of a wireless station are not necessary at all. He says that a wire stretched along the ground for about 500 feet will answer the purpose quite as well as the elevated structure.

He asserts that he has "picked up" messages from various distant stations with this simple attachment. Improvement of great value may be expected in wireless telegraphy and telephony if this discovery proves to be what Mr. Wolverton asserts.

THE CLOSE OF DAY

And now the close of this fair day was come;
The bay grew duskier on its purple floor,
And the long curve of foam
Drew its white net along a dimmer shore.
Through the fading saffron light,
Through the deepening shade of even,
The round earth rolled into the summer night,
And watched the kindling of the stars in heaven.
—Edward Rowland Sill.

HUGE BUNDLE CARRIER

One of the automobile manufacturing concerns in Detroit has installed an aerial conveyor for transporting automobile bodies. It is like a huge bundle carrier, such as one sees in the stores. The operation of the carrier is automatic; you press a lever and off the conveyor goes to destination.

FUNCTIONS OF LOCAL PAPER

In every community there is a responsibility resting upon the leading local newspaper. It is through the columns of the local paper that real conditions existing in a community are made known to the public. The leading newspaper of a city and the people of that city are partners in community building. The progress and character of a city is largely determined by the appearance and contents of the most widely circulated newspaper of that city.

If the reading matter in a newspaper is of a light and sensational character, the conclusion drawn by strangers is that the readers are getting just what they want. If the advertising columns are poorly patronized the conclusion of the outsider is that there is a lack of business life in the city, and if bargains are sought it will be necessary to go to wide-awake outside business centers to get them.

The Glendale Evening News with its co-partner, the Tri-City Progress (weekly), are considered the leading community papers in this section of the San Fernando Valley, first from the standpoint of substantial equipment in the form of printing presses, linotype machines, type and fixtures, the investment being more than $20,000.00; second from the standpoint of the employment of workmen and reporters of recognized ability, there being nearly $200 per week paid out for help.

These conditions being true it becomes necessary for these papers to pursue a course that will not hinder progress in the territory in which they circulate. Opportunity must be given business concerns for the most complete and far-reaching publicity, and the advantages of the city as a place in which to reside must be made known through the columns of these papers in a truthful and comprehensive manner. A publishing and printing plant thus equipped must not stand still and be satisfied by placing in the hands of a few a mere advertising bulletin, but it must reach the people and see that the wheels of municipal, moral and social progress are not hindered from revolving freely and with judicious rapidity.

It is with these responsibilities in mind that The Evening News announces the publication of the Business and Professional Men's Edition for tomorrow, May 6, which will be given thorough distribution in all parts of the Glendale community.

BUREAU OF STANDARDS

The Bureau of Standards of the United States Government is required to determine exact standards of measurement of nearly every kind and nature. A steel yardstick which may be a yard long in June, will be somewhat shorter in cold December; the bureau has to determine what a real yard will be under all conditions.

It has had to determine what amount of electricity should go into an electric light to give it a certain candle power, and what amount of gas goes to make the equivalent. In fact, at the present time light and gas companies and street railways furnish most of the knotty problems the bureau is called on to solve in the public utilities field.

The bureau is now formulating a national gas and electric safety code for the protection of both workers and consumers. Next the matter of telephones will be taken up with a view to standardizing transmitting and receiving apparatus as well as switchboard equipment.

FORESTRY IN CHINA

Most of the great floods and famines in China, of which news comes so frequently, are caused by the cutting down of the forests in times past, but owing to the influence of foreign teachers the Chinese are now thoroughly convinced of the value of forestry study and tree planting. Students were sent to the United States Forestry School in the Philippines, where they studied the latest methods.

A forestry school was established at Nanking last year. Teachers from the Philippine school helped to organize it. Stock was imported from some of the best nurseries of the world. Seventeen students began their studies last year, encouraged by the government, and now many more are eager to enter. Textbooks in English are used, so the young men have to master this tongue before beginning. Eighteen months are devoted to the technical side of the study, and then the students go out into the country for practical work.

The government has established a national arbor day, patterned after the custom in the United States, and the prospect is that China will be transformed in the course of time, furnishing a new source for the world's lumber supply.

AEROPLANE TOP

An oddity in the way of a spinning top, which travels in a certain direction and leaps from the floor, has just been patented by a Columbus (O.) man. It has several flexible wings freely pivoted upon it, which rest in recesses when it is not spinning, but which fly out by centrifugal force as soon as it is set in motion. These act as wings and make the top rise.

There is also a rudder attachment by which the direction of its travel can be governed.
